Combining Collaboration & Alerting

The value of voice is incalculable. When combined with full-scale alerting capabilities, your chosen personnel or contact set can be instantly notified of any emergencies and joined together in real-time to discuss options, make decisions, and resolve problems.

Why should you unite voice communication with your alerting system?

- Speed Information Distribution: Compunetix solutions promote productive, interactive, consensus-building conversations and efficient distribution of key information.
- Automatic Call Recording: Our systems can be set to record conversations automatically. These can later be reviewed, providing a complete audit trail.
- Security: Voice sessions can be secured for private communications – no outside parties will have access.
- Fast ROI: The return on your investment will be fast by eliminating money spent on outsourcing communications.
- Extensive Integration Options: Compunetix open system APIs allow for integration into other in-house collaboration tools, applications, and platforms.

Platform Solutions

Media Processor + Alerting System

If your organization requires complete control over all aspects of your continuity plan, our scalable in-house systems can provide the ideal solution. Compunetix platforms enable secure, reliable communications and integrate seamlessly into network environments. Internal redundancy options ensure unmatched dependability, and our extensive call capabilities provide the means to meet your needs no matter how unique.

Hybrid Solutions

Media Processor + Alerting System + Hosted Conferencing

With a hybrid solution, you can control and maintain an alerting system and conferencing system in-house, but, when an emergency or high call flow situation occurs, calls can be effortlessly transferred to an outsourced service provider. This architecture provides off-site back-up stability and confidence. Conference controls will remain the same, you will be able to access an operator for help, and call volumes can be much greater.

Hosted Solutions

Hosted Conferencing + Alerting System

Your business continuity program needs to match your company – fast-paced, small, and efficient. Compunetix can connect you with one of the premier alerting companies and a reliable conferencing service provider for a worry-free and smooth-running solution set. Equipment and software will all be maintained and serviced off-premise, but your alerting requirements will always be available, 24/7/365.

Why Choose Compunetix?

Compunetix has been designing and manufacturing communications solutions for nearly 50 years and are industry experts in high-quality audio for every conferencing need. From sensitive and secure calls to emergency alerting systems, we deliver quality conferencing across both commercial and government markets. With unmatched scalability, reliability, and flexibility, Compunetix systems deliver conferencing solutions with limitless possibilities.
